

2019 AIFST STUDENT SUMMER SCHOOL

THE UNIVERSITY
of ADELAIDE

More than 550 students over the past eight years have attended the AIFST Food Science & Nutrition Summer School, coming together for an event that provides an avenue to learn, network and promote individual research projects focusing on the food industry.

Over the course of two days, students and graduates will:

- Build their professional food science & nutrition industry network among their peers, industry and academia
- Be exposed to food science & nutrition industry opportunities through industry guest speakers, who can provide insight and advice on prospective career paths.
- Experience local site tours around Adelaide with “real world” industrial or research facilities, offering opportunities to engage firsthand.
- Build on current skills through workshops designed to challenge your food science, nutrition & technology knowledge and encourage critical and reflective thinking.
